Andrea Dougan Guest Speaker

Analyzing Handwriting – What handwriting really says

The program on April 12th will be a first for our group ...something new and exciting. Guest speaker Andrea Dougan will analyze excerpts from documents, journals and letters and read between the lines about the author of these items.

Andrea Dougan has been analyzing handwriting since the early 1970's when interviewing prospective employees for her husband's firm. When analyzed correctly a person's handwriting tell a lot about an individual and could add some interesting data to a family history research project.

Members interested in submitting something to be analyzed should do so in advance. Please scan your letter or handwritten document and send the image to Celeste Guillory cacese36@gmail.com. Once received, a transparency will be produced for Andrea to work with at the meeting on April 12th.

We can't promise that all submissions will be shown due to time restraints that day. Send your scan by Monday April 11 to be processed

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear members,

Last month's meeting with Jacque Campbell was one of our best meetings ever, raised some interesting questions and discussed all three of the DNA testing sites. Her wealth of knowledge is a great resource for local researchers. Plan to attend Jacque's DNA classes on Saturday April 9, 16 and 23 at the Family History Center from 10-12. Reservations required at: bevvel@gmail.com Also, plan to attend her other classes at the October 8th Community Seminar.

Going out with this newsletter are suggested revisions to the bylaws. I want to thank Garnet Rigby-Wharton and Jeanne Kengla for their efforts to update the rules of our group. We'll vote on these changes at the May 9th meeting.

Also coming up is a one-day trip to the Oregon State Archives in August. More on this later as details are worked out.

Don Ness and I will make a presentation at Countryside Village on Tuesday April 26 about our club. While there we'll do some ancestry.com look-ups for the residents.

Looking for someone to help Pat Heumann get a ride to and from our meetings. Contact her at (541) 441-6737 if you can bring her to the meetings.

Later on in the newsletter are some interesting websites I hope you will try out. I am always amazed at how many resources there are on the Internet. These resources help make family history research much easier and also a lot of fun. Thanks to Laura Dunwald-Uhlig for her commitment to finding these websites.

Best wishes to all,

Celeste Guillory

Do you have something for the yard sale on July 9th?
Clean out those closets and collect the extra stuff in your garage and bring it the day of the sale..

This year we have a great spot for the sale – Washington Federal Bank at the corner of 4th and “G” Sts. (busy location) across from the Growers Market. We need things to sell, people to set up before and take down after the sale. Bring sale items on the day of the sale ... please mark a price on each item and don't forget a lunch and a comfortable folding chair if you volunteer to work that day

Passenger Lists & Locating Place Names

Presented by Melinda Kashuba

April 9, 2016

2PM-5PM

Redding Library—Community Room
1100 Parkview Ave. Redding, CA 96001

Finding Your Way through Passenger Lists, Immigration and Naturalization Records

In this lecture Melinda will present an overview of three major record groups that pertain to the immigrant and the traveler. The focus is upon passenger lists, immigration records created since 1820, and naturalization records since 1790. Strategies are presented to help you locate immigrants among surviving passenger lists. American laws permitting immigration and naturalization will be discussed as well as how they affected our immigrant ancestors. Records created during their relocation and residence in the United States will also be featured.

Locating Foreign Maps for Genealogical Research

If you have a good map, genealogical research in a foreign country is much easier. In this lecture Melinda will teach you how to locate foreign maps and interpret them. There are plenty of online sources, libraries, and retailers that sell foreign maps depicting locations where your ancestors lived. The Library of Congress and the National Archives maintain large collections of foreign maps and maps created by United States agencies to serve American interests in other parts of the world. A bonus to collecting foreign maps: they can help you plan research trips abroad or assist you in directing others to do research on your behalf.

Melinda Kashuba holds a PhD in Geography from the University of California, Los Angeles. She is a popular lecturer and author of Walking with Your Ancestors: a Genealogist's Guide to Using Maps and Geography (Family Tree Books, 2005) plus numerous articles in genealogical magazines and other publications. Her specialties include nineteenth and twentieth century American records and maps. She performs genealogical research for clients and is a member of the National Genealogical Society, the Association Professional Genealogists, and the California State Genealogical Alliance.

Calling all Intermediate and Advanced Genealogists! July 28 and 29, 2016
Lane Community College, Eugene, OR This is a two-day Institute. The fee covers both days of instruction, as well as lunch and snacks. We are bringing in nationally known and well-respected genealogists, authors and educators to share their knowledge with us. You pick the track and you stay in the same classroom for two insightful days with your instructor.

Is it time to expand your research outside your normal comfort zone? Are you ready to take your writing skills up a notch or two? Are you hoping for personal growth in your genealogical pursuits?

Write it Up! A Workshop for Family Historians

Thomas W. Jones, Ph.D., CG, CGL, FASG, FUGA, FNGS -Through genealogical examples and exercises, participants will learn how to get started, how to write clearly and concisely, and how to organize their writing for publication. This two-day interactive workshop will include feedback on participants' writing samples.

“Records Created by the Federal Government: Essential Sources for Reconstructing Ancestors’ Lives.”

John Philip Colletta, Ph.D., FUGA This course examines a broad sampling of federal records available in a variety of media: online, on microfilm, in books, as well as originals. Discussed are passenger arrival lists, naturalizations, military pension and bounty land, court records, passport applications, homestead files, Civil War income tax records, the Journals of Congress, appointments of postmasters, and Civil War draft registrations. Lessons describe the records in detail and the finding aids, such as online databases and microfilmed indexes, for accessing the ones you need. Engaging examples and case studies illustrate the wealth of biographical information these records contain about our ancestors. The final session demonstrates how to use the National Archives in Washington, D.C., and the twelve Regional Archives across the country to delve into the millions of federal records that have never been published.

The Typewriter

Leroy Anderson (1908-1975) was an American composer of short, light concert pieces. Leroy Anderson wrote The Typewriter for orchestra and completing the work on October 9, 1950.

The Boston Pops Orchestra, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, introduced many of his other compositions.

This particular orchestration was performed in a June 12, 2011 concert by members of the National Orchestra and Chorus of Spain in Madrid. The (typewriter) soloist is Alfredo Anaya. Watch his expressions and actions throughout the video...wonderful!

Many of the younger crowd who may see this video won't remember the ole typewriter. But us geezers remember it well. That was a long time ago.
